

Dear Paul,

I think this paper was an improvement over the last one. While there were some hiccups during the process, I think you will see that the finished product is much more cohesive than previously shown. The transitions are good, and the narrative is focused. One thing I think I could have done better is go into more detail about some things I talked about, like maybe look into historical depictions of monsters, or go deeper into the comic, but I did not have the motivation to, and the end product would be worse because it would not meet the expectations I have for such breadth in a piece of work. Anyways, hope you enjoy it. See you in a week or so.

--Olek